his last resting place, now bore a handsome floral piece. The procession moved through the town to the Lexington Cemetery, where it was formed in line before Jackson's famous statue, beneath which lies remains lie.

Dr. Charles Manly then delivered the benediction, which was rendered at the great soldier's funeral, followed by a quartet of women who sang Jackson's favorite hymn. The corps presented arms, again. To the color was sounded; again the colors dipped and silently the procession moved away from the grave, leaving thereon its floral tribute, while many a soldier's heart, both young and old, throbbed with emotion beneath the gray jackets of the Confederacy.

Great Crowd Attends.
The whole ceremony was witnessed by a great concourse of people, including the faculties both of the Institute and Washington and Lee University, the student body of the latter and many residents of Lexington. As the corps passed and reposed the chapel in which Lee's body lies, it rendered the traditional salute.

In Lexington, the atmosphere of which is saturated with memories of America's three greatest soldiers, Washington, Lee and Jackson, the traditions of the great Virginians are as great as the laurels which fame has entwined about their brows.

children, have made a close study of eugenics, and am of the opinion that I am fitted for the marriage state, with all its duties.

"I have made a close study of marriage, and I have come to the conclusion that race suicide, as it is termed, is not altogether wrong. If a union is completed wherein there is health, morally and physically, then the children should be children as often as nature will bless the marriage. But where the conditions suggest the child is not conducive to a healthy being, then, in my opinion, there should be no offspring."

DYNAMITE EXPLODES

Three Persons Are Killed and Fifty Injured.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Uniontown, Pa., May 10.—Three persons were killed and fifty injured when several tons of dynamite exploded in a storehouse at the Sunning Mine No. 3, at Masontown, near here, today. A number of the injured will die. The cause of the explosion has not been determined. It is thought to have occurred while boxes of powder were being placed in the storehouse. The explosion was so great that three cars of merchandise were lifted from the track and thrown through the country store. The store was crowded with men making purchases for Sunday, and it was here that the majority were injured.

freedom of the child in education is revolutionary; it calls for a new system of education, but it is only through this sort of education of freedom that one can develop in a child true self-reliance, will power and strength of character."

Always Near at Hand.
Madame Montessori, she declared to be the most beautiful figure of this day in education. Mrs. Macey's own miraculous results in the education of Miss Keller were accomplished by this new freedom. She had kept herself continually near at hand to throw into the outstretched hands new food for thought only when the child tired of its present study. In her very modest history of the education of Miss Keller, Mrs. Macey attempted to make the wonderful feats accomplished appear more commonplace, but nothing could conceal from the audience the romance of the successful fight against tremendous odds. While many people regard Miss Keller's winning of an academic degree at Radcliffe College as the most notable feat in her education, Mrs. Macey herself says the teaching of the deaf and blind girl to talk is one of the wonders of the age. This was accomplished only after years of persistent struggle, and has only recently been perfected sufficiently for the pupil to appear on the public platform.

ing and currency, and Taylor, of Alabama, prefers the Rivers and Harbors Committee, while Stephens, of Mississippi, is said to be slated for a place on the Good Roads Committee.

A petition for a call for an early caucus of the House Democrats to create the Good Roads Committee was circulated in the House to-day.

The final approval of the new men on the Banking and Currency Committee will not be vouchsafed, it is understood, until their currency reform views are made clear, the object of the leaders being to get effective currency reform legislation in the House as quickly as possible.

There will not be many changes in the important chairmanships in the House, though there will be a few new heads of Agriculture, for which Lever, of South Carolina, is slated, and for Immigration, in the event Burnett, of Alabama, elects to change to Public Buildings and Grounds.

SECRETARY MAY FIX VALUATIONS

bility of having the income tax computed from July 1, 1913, instead of January 1, 1913.

Another amendment proposed would make it unlawful for any person to take up appeals from appraised valuations on a contingent basis.

Attorney-General Denison, as Assistant Attorney-General, is said to be in favor of the amendment, with the provision already in the bill requiring a fee of $1 for all protests and appeals, would curtail customs litigation 50 per cent.

The proposed amendment, which includes a completely new feature into the administration of the tariff law, was conceived by Assistant Attorney-General Denison, who was chairman of the presidential commission that investigated the board of general appraisers several months ago. The recommendations of the commission for sweeping changes in the present methods of appraisal and classification recently were submitted to the Congress by President Wilson.

Cement Burial Vault Company of Richmond, Inc.

Hundreds of vaults are used every year in Tidewater Virginia. Why? Because water rises in the graves while being dug. Only through the use of the cement vault can they hope to preserve the body. Our vault fills a long-felt want. Only at the expenditure of thousands of dollars have the people of Richmond been able to get an absolutely dry, insect-proof, hermetically sealed receptacle for the indefinite preservation of a friend or relative.

If your undertaker cannot supply you, we will place vault in any cemetery, ready for casket, and seal top after ceremony. Price, $50.00. Write for booklet. Quick service and satisfaction given.
